"Rise To Shine"

It was never my intention
No, it never was
But when I looked at your direction
You looked back in hate
It's true that I only aimed for, your attention
But I never wanted it like this

It started like a starting clock
So slow, I know
I had no walls appearing to block
My thoughts to you
Not scared, used to it, then why am I so shocked?
It's always like this, ending like a tragedy
In the end, when I'm given up
You come stand up, to make me carry on

Every day, all you say, it's all the same
Tea and sympathy, they have no name
Then why try love? Why start again?
It's just a way to break your heart
Telling me every time to rise and shine
(No need for sympathy!)

It started so easy that it made me laugh
(Not again)
It's just a joke when it ends so hard
(Let's begin)
Then why start in the first place
(How should I know?)
Like trying it out, that bitter taste

Every day, all you say, it's all the same
Tea and sympathy, they have no name
Then why try love? Why start again?
It's just a way to break your heart
Telling me every time to rise and shine
(No need for sympathy!)

Everyday, all you say, it's all the same
(Can't you see?)
Tea and sympathy, they have no name
(No name)

Then why try love? Why start again?
It's just a way to break your heart
(Break your heart)
Telling me every time to rise and shine
(No need for sympathy!)

No need for sympathy
Rise and shine!
People may think I'm just paranoia
I'd rather die!
It's just a way to break your heart
Telling me every time to rise and shine
(No need for sympathy!)
