I think these days I'm always asking this
The same questions, and the answers I try not to guess
I know it, but I leave it, I won't move it, it belongs there
The right place, but I want some change, even if you won't care
Cause' all these words and sins that I've hold in against you
They show up soon, in a moment with a day that's new Just few more minutes, and I can escape from a night of lies
I may be losing the point, I may be random, but don't ask why
We tend to be hyper, I don't really realize until you remind
I took what I hate, and overcame it by throwing it behind
That's how I live, that's how they live, no one cares, and
it's about time

You look behind, in the fading darkness
You see the clock, it reminds of all the worthless
That you've thrown away, but forget about that Don't care what they want to say, don't regret cause'
we're so excited
It's six minutes to midnight, and I have not yet decided Should I stay like this? Are there the chances I missed?
But now, I just want to be like what I am right now Don't try to tell me why, don't try to tell how Because we're getting hyper, finally and it's not going
to stop
It's six minutes to midnight (It's about time, it's about time)
I've lost the senses, who's really right? (It's about time,
it's about time)

If these days were something wasted, I'll stay like Someone that's out of control, anything despite What I am right now, I think I've got my mind
Then lets try to start again, and try to rewind Nothing matters when this all starts, then what are you waiting for?
Don't care if it hurts, don't care what they've said before

I can't make myself become you, I don't want to lose my part Because what I'll become, will be where I start
When I lose my memory, when I'm just so wild
I won't remember, just don't forget I might be mild That's how I live, that's how they live, no one cares, and
it's about time

You look behind, in the fading darkness
You see the clock, it reminds of all the worthless
That you've thrown away, but forget about that Don't care what they want to say, don't regret cause'
we're so excited
It's six minutes to midnight, and I have not yet decided Should I stay like this? Are there the chances I missed?
But now, I just want to be like what I am right now
Don't try to tell me why, don't try to tell how Because we're getting hyper, finally and it's not going
to stop
It's six minutes to midnight (It's about time, it's about time)
I've lost the senses, who's really right? (It's about time,
it's about time)

Who cares now, it's already starting (Now this panic is a part of you)
Who cares now, it's already starting
(Now this panic is a part of you)
Who cares now, it's already starting
(Now this panic is a part of you)
Who cares now, it's already starting
(Now this panic is a part of you)
Who cares now, it's already starting
(Now this panic is a part of you)
Now this chaos, now this panic is so addicting

You look behind, in the fading darkness
You see the clock, it reminds of all the worthless
That you've thrown away, but forget about that Don't care what they want to say, don't regret cause'
we're so excited
It's six minutes to midnight, and I have not yet decided Should I stay like this? Are there the chances I missed?
But now, I just want to be like what I am right now
Don't try to tell me why, don't try to tell how Because we're getting hyper, finally and it's not going
to stop
It's six minutes to midnight (It's about time, it's about time)
I've lost the senses, who's really right? (It's about time,

it's about time)
I can't have you, I don't know who's insane
It's six minutes to midnight
