We've been fighting for so long, and they're not even real

We've tried so hard to come along, but we're throwing down our seal

So then I stand up alone with sleeping silence
I'm given up on all of us, we've broke our alliance

And you tell me to stand up and look at the sky
When there's no point, we live under a sky, that's not blue
We'll throw away the joint, and say things aren't true

That's why I needed to
I've thrown away my nation, under a solid declaration
We stay right here, but do nothing until it disappears
There's no way back, where do I stay now?
(I'm right back in the society, but I have nothing else to do)

While the beats of nothingness takes time
We can't defeat all the solid vision and it's light

That's why I needed to
I've thrown away my nation, under a solid declaration
We stay right here, but do nothing until it disappears
There's no way back, where do I stay now?
(I'm right back in the society, but I have nothing else to do)
I guess what I meant, where misery had been sent
