Don't choose what I can be
Don't lie to what you really see
I'm standing right there
And you can't reach me
I'm standing to care
And you can't reach me

A sunny day won't really matter
Once that you've known this all as flatter
You'll start to grow in the rooms
You'll see outside the flowers in bloom

Don't choose what I can be
Don't lie to what you really see
It just takes the time, to be like me
Cause' I have a spirit, and it's all free

Inside and out, but it won't really change
Break your schedules, you won't be arranged
You'll start to know yourself
You'll be something that you can call yourself

I'm standing right there
I touch the summer air
This is the blood, this is my symbol
You're no good, can't be my resemble
But I know you have something new Something that I've never knew

Don't choose what I can be
Don't lie to what you really see
It just takes the time, to be like me
Cause' I have a spirit, and it's all free

Now won't come back
You've dropped things out of the window
Then I'll hide inside your fading shadow
It's night, the moon light
It's not right, not just yet
I still have a heart to set free
Don't choose what I can be
Don't lie to what you really see

It just takes the time, to be like me
Cause' I have a spirit, and it's all free
