Waking up with the face
It's breaking your pace
It might be the best but worst

Cause' when you think you've got a hold
It was just the beginning
When you thought you belonged right here
It was some where far
Everytime you call yourself the best
But you know pride comes before a fall
And then you start again and excuse your misses
Now I need to tell you honey, that tomorrow never comes
You're chasing something wrong

The sharp edges of knives
Bring you back to life
Nothing better, but nothing worst

Cause' when you think you've got a hold
It was just the beginning
When you thought you belonged right here
It was some where far
Everytime you call yourself the best
But you know pride comes before a fall
And then you start again and excuse your misses
Now I need to tell you honey, that tomorrow never
comes
You're chasing something wrong

It's something wrong, something long You're chasing for
That's not what you want you chase the other day
But I really need to tell you, that tomorrow never comes
