Welcome back, now it's winter
By now, I'm sure you've found your answer
What was it like when you left me here?
Did you expect me to disappear from your sight?
That must be what's right

I don't want to be yours, cause' he's the one for you
And you don't want me anymore, and you're out for someone new
You throw me off and look down at the floor Hope you knew what's really fighting for

I think you actually understand, you just don't want to say
I've been walking in your hand, just to find a day like today
You're reaching somewhere, when something is blocking you
And you know what you want to care, your mind
embraced in blue
I'm taking steps backwards for you
And you believe that's what you really want

Welcome back, but there's no time to wonder
By now, I think you've found out where to go What was it like when you found your place?
Did it give an angel's smile on your face?
That must be how you taste

I don't want to be yours, cause' he's the one for you
And you don't want me anymore, and you're out for
someone new
You throw me off and look down at the floor
Hope you knew what's really fighting for

I think you actually understand, you just don't want to
say
I've been walking in your hand, just to find a day like
today
You're reaching somewhere, when something is
blocking you
And you know what you want to care, your mind

embraced in blue
I'm taking steps backwards for you
And you believe that's what you really want

And you can't explain yourself well
Have no one else that's left that you can tell What you want, what you need
What you want to believe Inside, you're the only one that's confused

I don't want to be yours, cause' he's the one for you
And you don't want me anymore, and you're out for
someone new
You throw me off and look down at the floor
Hope you knew what's really fighting for
