You'll think after you hear this song
That what did you do so wrong
When your life becomes a total distortion
You'll lose all the sweet emotions

Since we'd had our last farewell
I've had no chance to tell
That you're going down now
You've thrown all your luck that allows
And soon you'll come back to me
Thinking how cruel that man could be
With thoughts we share in common
That to say let's start this again

When you've lost yourself completely
Go to a man that will agree
And have a joyful life
Where you won't see any knife

Where did those strong words go
When you found a man that'll know
Now are you filled with problems
Without a way to solve them
You'll know soon when you feel a sin
How your way down is about to begin

You're going down now
Not knowing how
To solve this all
And make this pain small
I'll always just wait
And sing this song that you hate
You're going down now
You're going down now

(Solo)

That you're going down now
You've thrown all your luck that allows
And soon you'll come back to me
Thinking how cruel that man could be
With thoughts we share in common

That to say lets start this again

You're going down now
From mercy that won't allow
All your betrays
As this hateful song says
You're going down now
From a man
To start all this again

You'll think after you hear this song
That what did you do so wrong
When your life becomes a total distortion
You'll loose all the sweet emotions
You're going down

But not again
I'll keep you strong
To erase all our pain
With this song I'm gonna tell ya' that
You're going down
