You say I am your everything
The half that makes you whole
You say you love me with all your heart,
Your body and your soul
You say your love is an ocean
Without any shore
You ask how much I love you
I love you more

I'd give you my seat on the train to heaven
If only one of us could go
Give every ounce of blood in my body
If no pain you'd ever know
I'd fight every evil
That ever came against our door
I know how much you love me, baby
But I love you more

Waking up with you in the morning
Seeing your smiling face
Makes me feel like God
Has put us in a permanent state of grace
Your kiss tells me you need me
Like nobody has before
You say how much you want me
I want you more

With every day that goes by
When I hold you every night
Our love will last till the end of time
Then maybe we'll find even more

I'd give you my seat on the train to heaven
If only one of us could go
Give every ounce of blood in my body
If no pain you'd ever know
I'd fight every evil
That ever came against our door
I know how much you love me
But I love you more

I know how much you love me

But I love you more
