"Act IV"

It was act three that broke your heart
The part without acting that broke your heart
Framed by the actor who tried to break your heart
As if an island could ever break your heart

If only you could see all the things I saw
On the walk back towards home
If only you could see all the things I saw
On the walk back towards home

It was act four that broke your heart
And I cast the actor to try to break your heart
It's on the surface of every broken heart
As if an island could ever break your heart

If only you could see all the things I saw
On the walk back towards home
If only you could see all the things I saw
On the walk back towards home
