Maybe I could climb the highest mountain
Maybe I could ride the wildest sea
Funny how you wonder if you were just a different person
There's so much more that you think you can be Maybe I'd be justice maybe I'd be peace
Brimming with confidence in my abilities
Or a new creation in the same old space
A new religion behind the old face

If God was my best friend
Could I be what I dream then

If I could just wear his designer clothes
I could be somebody just who you never know
And it wouldn't be the clothes on my back
That makes people think there's nothin I lack

If God was my best friend
Could I be what I dream then

I think I go way too far
When I say that I think
I know who you are
But if I really knew
I wouldn't be the same person to you
Here I go again
Can I make a friend
I think I already have
But the fact is
Everything I dream
Is in the thing I lack
