We are all the same she said
But some die young and some get old
Our love will last more than a day

Nothing can reflect the sun like water
Only hills can make me feel that way
And when days are bright and songs are heard
I know love is more than just a word

Love is more than a word
Love is really beyond words
And our love will last more than a day

But rare are those things that can really please me

I look at you and I know this has to end
For there'll be days when we've grown old
And when our love is no longer for the two of us to hold

It's not that we don't want our love to last
But death is here you know and soon it will be time but when days are bright and songs are heard
I know love is more than just a word
