I didn't hear that song you sang, now I ask you please sing it again

I'll sit down here so quietly, I can't remember just when I heard something that beautiful, It's almost unreal
And when something's that beautiful, I close my eyes

The water will come, I know it's way, the water comes to me now

But what it was that made the sun shine, that's not for us to know

At year's end, the sun seems so cold

There's no magic terms now, for my mind to hold

There's a light in the water, it seems so unreal

When a girl is that beautiful, I close my eyes

But she stays at home, because she's afraid

To go outside without his permission

She looks at all the clothes she owns, she looks at her hands

How neatly the fingers meet

She stays at home
