Hey, girl, with sunlight in your hair,
It hurts me so to see you standing there.
O-O-Oh Sandy, you laugh and run away.
You just don't care.

Your kiss was warmer than the sun,
And I can't forget all the things we've done.
O-O-Oh Sandy, do you remember when
I was the one?

You've been around since
That new boy who found you
Took you uptown
So far from me.

But someday, you're good times will be through,
And I know just what you're gonna do:
You'll come back, Sandy you know I'll still be here
Waiting for you.
