We fly through the night with the greatest of ease our journey has now just begun Dimensions in time we've yet to be shown, we flee with our lives on the line

Were playing with fire were playing with fate if your not a believer than your
A disgrace
We search for our sanctuary a place we call home, till now its been the unknown

No vision or clue of who we are,,,far

Our journey has ended we've taken our claim our land is our only true means

We'll fight to the death without any regrets protecting the land that we've kept

Don't come to close you'd best be aware, the evil that lurks here, it likes to share Controlling your thoughts and the hatred within they have opened a world of sin

Far from you far from me far from all that's holy Far,
Far from you far from me far from all that's holy
