I stopped believing when nothing seemed to change
No matter what they say my questions are the same
Just show me proof of presence let my thoughts be tamed

What you choose to call hell I call home

Without the vision to go it on our own
We create illusions for millions to follow
Within the madness we cling to shadows

What you choose to call hell I call home

Someone pull me back from the thunder

Can you tell me why that I must wander

Long live the rising , a story to be told
From the horizon IÂ'll watch it all unfold
If thereÂ's a light IÂ'll run till i take hold
But until then IÂ'll stay in the unknown

What you choose to call hell I call home

Someone pull me back , someone pull me back
Someone pull me back from the thunder
Can you tell me why that I must wander
