As seasons change
Every day remains the same

Such a feat to change the thread to cloth
Such a waste, these thoughts become dust
Such a feat to change the thread to cloth
Such a waste, these thoughts become dust

If only I could show you the things I've seen You'd see just how much everything means

For far too long have I stood in justified defiance
Far too long has hate and anger resided in a clenched
fist
For far too long have I stood in justified defiance
Far too long has hate and anger resided in a clenched
fist

Now the tides have come, just as the time has come
Now the tides have come, just as the time has come
Now the tides have come, just as the time has come
Now the tides have come,

To wash me and my pride away.
