

Rose Blossom Punch

"A Little While"

Visit "A Little While" on MotoLyrics.com

I've taken every word you say to me with of grain of salt
And it's not just your fault anymore
If you would have thought back way before it all went bad
You might have taken to heart the things we had

That's enough from me for a little while
Not that you could see through a sorry smile
And in case you can't tell you've broken this shell of me

I'm taking every word you say to me with of grain of salt
Because it's not just my fault anymore
If you would have known me way before it all went bad
You might have taken to thought the things we had

That's enough from me for a little while
Not that you could see through a sorry smile
And in case you can't tell you've broken this shell of me

If I had a shred of compassion for your aching head, you might feel older Holding you so dear like angel in the stratosphere could be my only hope

Visit Rose Blossom Punch page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.