"Each New Day"

Truly, madly, don't you know?
I hardly sleep anymore, again it's after four
I go slightly crazy nightly
Thinking of how to win your love
But the best I can do is dream of you

If only sleep would come
Then I could hold you near
Until you disappear in the morning light
At least you were mine for the night

There's no other underneath my cover
But thoughts of you keep me warm
The whole night through

And even if there really is no place
Where dreams come true
My heart is still with you
But it's through star dust I imagine us

If only sleep would find me
I could hold you near
Until you disappear when
Each new day comes
To take you away
