"She Prays"

When she prays with her knees, clinched to the carpet
She needs you to show her the purpose of this death
And why she's needing in desperation
The desperation, she's bleeding

And how could you
Take something so beautiful away
And now I'm so afraid
Even I could slip away
Today is the day, that I will have to face this

Time lingers by
And sweat drips down her face
So sick of this
So sick of this taste
She just might break
She just might break
Oh, my God, she might just break

You will not fall
You will not die
You will find strength and hope, within
A hope, within

She stands in the hallway
Reminiscing on her life
Remembering her friend's love
She spoke of a hope, within
A hope that never falters
A hope that never fades
A hope that stands past the sting of death
