(Jon Stocklin)

Someday, some way, somewhere
I know someone lives for me
Daydreams, time seems to move slow
But I know we will see

That the moments passing by
In the time that you and I could be Can't you see that living alone is driving me out of my mind?
Oh, it's knowing that you're there
And knowing you will care
I can find you, find you to me
But I see that we just can't hurry time

Days passed, I asked
"How long have you been waiting for me?"
Sometimes I find my mind
Doubting the things that will be

Oh, the moments passing by
Is the time that you and I could be
Can't you see that living alone is driving me out of my mind?
Oh, it's knowing that you're there
And knowing you will care
I can find you, find you to me
But I see that we just can't hurry time

Days passed, I asked
"How long have you been waiting for me?"
Sometimes I find my mind
Doubting the things that will be

Oh, the moments passing by
Is the time that you and I could be
Can't you see that living alone is driving me out of my mind?
It's knowing that you're there
And knowing you will care
I can find you, find you to me

I see that we just can't hurry time

Someday, some way, somewhere
I know someone lives for me
Daydreams, time seems to move slow
But I know we will be

The moments passing by
Is the time for you and I could be
