You dive into sleep find roses under the door, they seem to speak in trance of youth;
"remember who you swore to chose, girl ..."
I am dead, dead in love
I am pale, pale enough to be dead, death I got
dead in love.
There may be a sky
could be a sign for me to rise but without blood and energy I send my brain waves, possibly they find their aim.
Death I got ...
You float into sourness infected by my bite you crawl down in my castle where the beasts lie in my arms and smile so sweet.
I am dead, dead in love
I am pale, pale enough
to be dead, death I got
dead in love.
