Rearing the lool from the sun I would never know the latest day I woke up in the cold broke that I promised, fading away, my light.
Tell me, my repertory, if this will last what more they want my pride to give and why - I ask you why am I the only figure kept alive.
They had to do what was to do what did what in the mind of a force known as the sense of man
got banned and mystified ...
So lead me back,
my repetory of grey where I belong and never can be in possiblity to lose my weight, my inner peace, my way
and when you, my repertory, ever will turn from grey to freedom I forget I will forget my fault
my fault,
my very fault ...
