(Harlan Howard)

A photograph that's signed With Love
Your lipstick and a tiny glove
Why did you leave so many things
To tear at my heart strings.

Odds and ends, bits and pieces
Of an old love affair
Old love letters and some flowers
That you wore in your hair.

Odds and ends, bits and pieces
Of those happy by gone years
Odds and ends that keep tugging
At my tears.

A book you read, a good luck charm
I gave to keep you from all harm
The tear stained note you left behind
But all the tears were mine.

Odds and ends, bits and pieces
Of an old love affair
Old love letters and some flowers
That you wore in your hair.

Odds and ends, bits and pieces
Of those happy by gone years
Odds and ends that keep tugging
At my tears...
