All I need is time, then I'll get over you
A little at a time, a bit each day
All I need is time to mend a dream or two
Then I'll forget the love you took away

Morning's here again, just like the day before
But the only change is that I love you more
All I need is time, maybe a thousand years
Maybe a million tears but I need time

Everybody says the pain won't last too long
Have a lot of fun and time will fly
It took a lot of time till love was born in me
And it'll take some time for love to die

Each and every day I spend forgetting you
Brings another night, I never quite get through
All I need is time, maybe a thousand years
Maybe a million tears but I need time
