"The Same Street"

I still live on the same street that we lived on
The same old street, where memories were made on
I shouldn't stay, why don't I go?
Each day hurts a little more

It won't be the same street anymore, since you're gone
It won't be the same street anymore

Each day I walk alone, where we once walked before
See all familiar places, where we talked before
But I can't run from memories
They're mine and they belong to me

It won't be the same street anymore, since you're gone
It won't be the same street anymore
