

Royal City Riot "Just Say The Word"

Visit "Just Say The Word" on MotoLyrics.com

When the wear and tear of years, they start to show
And I find myself growing tired of the road
If I need someone to hear my many woes
I should hope my long lost friend would let me know

I know, that times are changing
I know, some things never change
I know, you're ready for some re-arranging
I know, this ain't gonna never change

If you ever need a friend, just say the word
If you ever feel alone, just say the word
If you need somewhere to go, just say the word

When your other friends just shut you out the door
Trust me I've been there a couple times before
When you're down and feeling that there's nothing more
Lord knows, I'm here to help you off the floor

Visit Royal City Riot page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.