I don't need a DJ nothing slows me down

I need no one clapping when I'm high on sound

Tragedy is a dance floor when I move my feet

I roll like a disco ball

Every time my life plays in a minor key

Every time I feel eyes looking down on me

I listen to my heartbeat so I can play by ear

And life sings with me

Rockstar's in my soul and I'll be just fine

My self-deception tells me that if tears I find

I'll shake them off with sound and keep on moving on

Lonely is not a crime if I'm here dancing

If there's any noise I only feel it bouncing

I play like a rockstar, as high as a rockstar

I fly with my headphones on

If the lights are off implying tragedy

If a violin accents my misery

I leave it on my piano and then rehearse that song

And I learn to sing along

Every time I panic and my breathing's fast

Every time I feel off tempo I just press pause

I listen to my heartbeat so I can play by ear

And life sings with me
