"Old lover's house"

I drove by my old lover's house last night at three a.m.
Her car was parked next to his so I just honked my horn

But I'm looking for something new
Something like you
And I'm wondering what I should do
Are you in the mood?

Last night I had a fantasy you knocked upon my door
Your lips were so familiar you reached into my core

But I'm looking for something new
Something like you
And I'm wondering what I should do
Are you in the mood?

Yellow street lamps
Light the night
Lonely street corners
Sob and cry
The car is silent
I could hear my thoughts
My belly's full, but my Heart is not

I fell to my knees in front of the bathroom mirror
My eyes were as hollow as the six o'clock news

But I'm looking for something new
Something like you
And I'm wondering what I should do
Are you in the mood?

I drove by my old lover's house last night at three a.m.
