The room is dark, it's quiet, peaceful like a wasteland forest, say
A bloodred light shines on the walls of your apartment
As you step into the room
And you can't hear the sound of laughing from your friends
Downstairs, cause then you'd bother all too much
When you're sitting down, you hear a knocking on your door
And Anemone comes in
She tells you once again to reflect over your heart and feelings
Well, here you go again
Losing all support, the devil's wisdom comes and Turns your heart to stone, so cold...
And you know It doesn't have to be
So unfortunately, It's just that
You don't have to be, So unfortunated Nataly
Anemone is asking questions to the viper in your mind
She puts her arms around you, Death is all too near Suddenly the picture is changing
Feel like going somewhere else
The need of strangers comfort will push away your fear
Don't you think that someone knows and do you think
That noone ever cares
Once more the room is quiet, The black dress lies
On the floor, Anemone puts on her veil and walks gently
To the door
You lie in silence upon the bed, You see her
Shining light and you know
You will close the door behind
You scream out loud, You feel the pain is fading out
And once again the room is dark
And you know it doesn't have to be
So unfortunately
And you don't have to be, So unfortunated Nataly
