"Silence, And The Firmament Withdrew"

Make all the cold trees mourn their branches frozen in sightless motion Waving, reaching for the whispering rain There was silence and the firmament withdrew revealing all, shapelessly and swiftly In carmine and crimson stood flaming the sky the relics of myths that exploded and died

Dismantle the sun and stars in their rise and rend from the skyline the black in our eyes The skyline so empty all but one, nonexistent

Words were not, nor gesture, through or life
The skydancers laid slain and old
The firmament in perpetual withdrawal

Lux Aeterna - sing unto the world
