I woke up this morning
And the rain was pouring down
I could hear it tapping on my roof

And I started thinking
Thinking about yesterday
All the things I wish I'd never done

What a way to wake up
When regret just holds you down

But I'm still living
I'm still kicking
I'm still breathing

And you told me 'listen'
But I only walked away
Guess I should have listened after all

But I took my chances
And look where I've ended up
Maybe another chance will come

But sometimes this world
Won't give you a chance at all

But I'm still living
I'm still kicking
I'm still breathing

The rain's still pouring
And the day has just begun
I can tell it's gonna rain all day

Well tomorrow's hopeful
But today was damned to be
Catastrophic from the start

What a way to wake up
What a way to start a day

But I'm still living

I'm still kicking
I'm still breathing
