You will never get older and you will never feel pain Or fill the room with laughter like you used to
And I won't hear you speaking or others call your name In spite of this the world will still continue

And you will always remain in my heart forever young Sun and wind won't change you and you'll escape the hands of time
And now your beauty won't betray you and your
future's paved with gold
But in my mind you are suspended and you will be forever young

I'm a little bit hopeful that we all carry on But part of me still thinks we're all just stardust
And from the highest mountain I went to make a sound
I thought that if I called out you would answer
But no one did

And you will always remain in my heart forever young Sun and wind won't change you and you'll escape the
hands of time
And now your beauty won't betray you and your
future's paved with gold
forever young

I know the rules of the game
For every sunset the light has to fade
But baby a light like yours was so glorious Glorious

And you will always remain in my heart forever young Sun and wind won't change you and you'll escape the
hands of time
And now your beauty won't betray you and your
future's paved with gold
But in my mind you are suspended and you will be
forever young
