Listen, listen to me
This plane is gonna crash, it's only moments, you see
I never thought this could happen to me
I see my whole life flash, in a perfect vision Look out the window and we're tumbling to the ground...

Tiny little flashlight's leading the way in the dark
Tiny little red light's leading the way to my heart
And when you're upside down, and smoke is in the air
And when you're falling apart
You see those tiny little flashlight's leading the way in the dark

Listen, listen to the roar
We're breaking up, we just lost engine number 4
And as we're spiraling and crashing into the sea
I find a kind of stillness, baby
Within the chaos, it's finally just you and me

Tiny little flashlight's leading the way in the dark
Tint little red light's leading the way to my heart
And when you're upside down and smoke is in the air
And when you're falling apart
You see those tiny little flashlight's leading the way in
the dark

And we're all just spinning wheels
Have we lost our landing gear?
And we're all just spinning wheels
So there's nothing left to fear...

Tiny little flashlight's leading the way in the dark
Tiny little red light's making their way to my heart...

And when you're upside down, and smoke is in the air
And when you're falling apart
You see those tiny little flashlight's leading the way in
the dark

Tiny little flashlight's leading the way in the dark

Tiny little red light's leading the way to my heart
