The rain falls down but the sun still shines
And as you smile you start to cry
So I wipe the tears from your eyes

I painted pictures in my mind
Of the paradise I long to find
But will it make anything alright

If I'm not wrong then I must be right
Just as day must follow night
I climb the mountain to your heart
I long to hold you from the start

The rain falls down but the sun still shines
As you smile you start to cry
so I wipe the teardrops from your eyes

If I'm not wrong then I must be right
Just as day must follow night
I climb the mountain to your heart
I long to hold you from the start

The rain falls down but the sun still shines
As you smile you start to cry
so I wipe the teardrops from your eyes

I see the blue skies turn to grey

Just hope our lives don't do the same
And we shine on through those cloudy days

Hold the future deep inside
To live the dreams lost in our minds
But will it make anything alright

Alright
Alright
Alright

If I'm not wrong then I must be right
Just as day must follow night
I climb the mountain to your heart

I long to hold you from the start

The rain falls down but the sun still shines
As you smile you start to cry
so I wipe the teardrops from your eyes

If I'm not wrong then I must be right
Just as day must follow night
I climb the mountain to your heart
I long to hold you from the start

The rain falls down but the sun still shines
As you smile you start to cry
