Let the sunset on all the things that I've done wrong
Where do I belong, where do I belong
Let the sunrise on all my dark and lonely nights
Where do I belong, where do I belong

I sit around wondering if things will ever be the same
And I don't know anything, but I think I know everything
And even though I don't know how, I know that you won't let me down

So let the sunset on all the things that I've done wrong
Where do I belong, where do I belong
Let the sunrise on all my dark and lonely nights
Where do I belong, where do I belong

I walk around wondering if things will ever be the same
And I don't know anything, but I think I know everything
And these wounds that time won't heal they make me real

Let the sunset on all the things that I've done wrong
Where do I belong, where do I belong
Let the sunrise on all my dark and lonely nights
Where do I belong, where do I belong

I watched the world fall down
I watched it all as it caved in around me
If your listening
Are you listening

Let the sunset on all the things that I've done wrong
Where do I belong, where do I belong
Let the sunrise on all my dark and lonely nights
Where do I belong, where do I belong

I don't know anything, but I think I know everything
