Lyrics : Constantine

Tiny Universes

Minds trap all they need
More than you can perceive
Surfacing when you're not clear
On what you had achieved
Offering every truth and lie
To sink in it's timeless sea
Drive you through the desert of pain
To bring you home of again

My love lived with the debt
And paid dearly everyday
Treasured the weight she wore
And slaved precious time away
Regret welled up and here eyes pour
All she'd thought to betray
But swam the dry black sea instead
And returned to live everyday

Factor in the possibility

Tiny universes breathe underneath
If you wake and choose to sea
The tiny universes breathe underneath

Bite the hand in your face
Or cry til it goes away
Go along to get on or run for the hills
Or quietly swallow your pills
What you did was right
And what he said was wrong
You found the way and all of us are lost
It don't happen all at once
Cause you walked through the door
You gotta sit down and beg for more

Factor in the possibility
Tiny universes breathe underneath
If you wake and choose to sea

The tiny universes breathe underneath
