"Glass House"

It's just about to break will it wait for us
It's almost way too late to save us
There are days It gets too hot
Then there are days it gets too cold
I can see through all these walls but I can't see us
And we'll shatter a million pieces
And never mend again

We're living in a glass house
It's clear now
That we're about to break
We're livin in a glass house
I can see now
The earth's about to quake
There are cracks appearing
And we're nearly
At the very end
living in a glass house
We can't pretend, We can't pretend

We're living in a dream we can't save this
The tension just too much we can't make it
Too many wrongs we can't make right
Too many wars left to fight
It's been one too many times that I faked it
And we'll shatter a million pieces
And never mend again

We're living' in a glass house
It's clear now
That we're about to break
We're living in a glass house
I can see now
The earth's about to quake

There are cracks appearing
And we're nearly at the very end
living in a glass house

We can't pretend in the end
That the way that we feel is
Is everlasting
We can't pretend in the end that we didn't ever want to break the glass in
