Walking on a razor's edge
So hard for me to find my way home
How could it have come to this
So hard to pick the right from the wrong

And I can't try to hide behind myself anymore
And I can't try to reason with the pain and misfortune
So I will grab hold to forever
And walk right through this open door

Walking on this lonely road
Heartbreaking pain at my side
Without two arms to hold me
Nothing but the chain of good-byes

And I can't try to hide behind myself anymore
And I can't try to reason with the pain and the torture
So I will grab hold to forever
And walk right through this open door

And I can't, and I can't try to hide behind myself anymore
And I can't try to reason with the pain and this torture
So I will grab hold to forever
And walk right through this open door

And I can't try to hide behind myself anymore
And I can't try to reason with the pain and the torture
So I will grab hold to forever
And walk right through this open door

Walking on a razor's edge
So hard for me to find my way home
