little paper trees standing in the forest plastic sun hanging in the sky big city scene is shining in the shoebox waiting for someone to switch on the light get in the car turn the key to the ignition cruise control to the nine to five supersize the kids are banging on the dashboard grass is greener on the other side

One foot in front of the other
i don't really wanna be oblivious... oblivious
hey now my sisters and brothers do you really wanna be

costa rica coca cola bottle in a school bus tossed out the window in a national park make me an offer a thousand colones ill trap that monkey after dark

oblivious... oblivious

where are all the clouds with the silver lining?
have they blown away
where are all the clouds with the silver lining?
