What the hell have you got to look forward to
I don't hear anybody knocking at your door
Your life has been a message in a bottle
Dumped in the ocean, never reaching any shore
At the point where nothing makes you happy
These days seem darker than they've ever been before
Here it comes again, that old familiar feeling
Get sick and leave your troubles on the floor

CHORUS

Just when i thought you were breaking down
Just when i thought you were breaking down, she found
you

Just when i thought you were breaking down
Just when i thought you were breaking down
You're shuttin people out has become more like a reflex

They used to be your friends, but they don't know you anymore

Don't mean to hurt you, but it's my only self defense
I make myself a mystery, so they don't know who to look for

Look at yourself, have you noticed your complexion
Looks like you've been spending too much time indoors
In the mirror can you see your reflection

Or am i the only one who's noticed that you look bored

CHORUS

Just when i thought you were breaking down, she found
you

Just when i thought you were breaking down
Just when i thought you were breaking down
I watched you fall apart

And never made a sound

What the hell have you got to look forward to
I don't hear anybody knocking at your door

Your life has been a message in a bottle
Dumped in the ocean, never reaching any shore
At the point where nothing makes you happy

These days seem darker than they've ever been before
Here it comes again, that old familiar feeling
Get sick and leave your troubles on the floor

CHORUS x2

Just when i thought you were breaking down
Just when i thought you were breaking down, she found
you
Just when i thought you were breaking down
Just when i thought you were breaking down
