Why don't you quit holding back and say what you want to say where did the trouble go because it hasn't gone away are you going to pretend like you're some other person never saw it never been there never heard that question i often wonder who you were before i met you what do you do when you're alone did you really think that i'd make you feel okay even when you didn't want to feel that way when did you decide that i was the one you wanted to play why where when i often wonder who you were before i met you what did you do what got you through the day did you really think that things would be okay even though you knew they'd never be that way when did you decide that i was the one you wanted to play why where when
