(Gene Dobbins - Jean Whitehead)

The day he left I told myself that he could ne replaced
And the memories that he leaves they could be erased
But since he's been gone oh I sing a different song
'Cause nothin' is working out for me.

In every room of this house he left a memory
In every dream that I dream he walks and talks with me
So how can I forget him and say that I don't care
When he's all around me he's everywhere.

His empty chair and pillow wear he would lay his head
It brings to mind the happy times before goodbyes we said
He's on my mind each morning and stays the long day through
And I miss him saying I love you.

So how can I forget him and say that I don't care
When he's all around me he's everywhere...
