(David Malloy)

And now you tell me it's all right
You didn't mean the things you said
And I'll forgive you like I always do
That's the price I pay to love you.

And then you'll pull down the shades
And run your hand through my hair
And then you'll take me in your arms
And tell me how much I love you.

Well I've heard it before yeah I know the lies
And I guess it'll always be this way
'Cause everytime you come to my door got one thing on your mind
And you know I'll always take the time.

'Cause that's the price I pay to love you
That's the price I pay to love you...
