Now I know so consider yourself told
You fall for two women you'r living a joke
This will be my coming down
The final curtain, the final frown

'Cause that ain't love, no that's a lie
I know this baby I won't deny
The cold inside, the cold is good
And I know, I shouldn't go down

Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
I know I won't give it up this time
I've been walking down a thin, thin line
Till they feel like, the one and the same
Cherry Lane

A boy is a boy, but a girl is a charm
That musn't be broken, that musn't be harmed
You must hold her gently, what else can you do?
And you know, you shouldn't go down

Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
I know I won't give it up this time
I've been walking down a thin, thin line
Till they feel like, the one and the same
Cherry Lane

Who says what's right? You can't see
You ain't left free from being guilty
Crawling so close to the line
And maybe just one more time down

Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
Cherry Lane, I walk down that street again
I know I won't give it up this time
I've been walking down a thin, thin line
Till they feel like, the one and the same, the same
Right down
Cherry Lane
