All the walls that make you feel safe
Are the same closing in some day
Are the borders only drawn in your head?
A thin line between alive and dead

You're the one looking down on all of us
In your eyes, nothing's ever good enough
You're the one looking down on all of us
When you die, you'll be the one looking up

And I feel my skin begin to breathe
And all the pills that were swallowed
To mold your disease

You're the one looking down on all of us
In your eyes, nothing's ever good enough
You're the one looking down on all of us
When you die, you'll be the one looking up

There's a message, it's appalling
It's appalling, for anyone you abused
There's a message, it's appalling
It's appalling, for anyone you abused

I think it's time we talk
I think it's time we talk
I think it's time we
I think it's time we talk

You're the one looking down on all of us
In your eyes, nothing's ever good enough
You're the one looking down on all of us
When you die, you'll be the one looking up

There's a message, it's appalling
It's appalling, for anyone you abused
There's a message, it's appalling
It's appalling, for anyone you abused
