

Sarah Brightman

"La Lune"

Visit "La Lune" on MotoLyrics.com

Note:

The first four lines in Italics are not in the CD-booklet and very unclearly sang by Sarah. Then follow Neil Armstrongs famous words, also not given in the booklet.

Light in the night with the stars and the moon,
And the sun's turned off.
When the moon is high,
And the sun's turned off.

[*"That's one small step for man,
one giant leap for mankind"*]

*Sous les nuages de la nuit je marche vers la clairire.
D'un clat argent je la vois,
la lune.*

Elle porte les voiles de l'ternit, son aurole embrasse les toiles, ma lune.

The moon
Under the clouds of the night,
I walk towards the clearing.
In a silver burst, I see her,
the moon.

She wears the veils of eternity,
her halo embraces the stars, my moon

Visit Sarah Brightman page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.