(With Sash)

There's a secret about your love
That always keeps me thinking of
How we ease each others' pain

Only when I feel you near
You take away my deepest fear
You put a spell on my heart
But I am not calling for any redemption

And the secret still remains
And I want you not to reveal
How you make me feel
How I have been touched by your love

So you keep the key
And I keep on playing my part
Not knowing the game
And the secret will remain

These thoughts they haunt me every night
Visions covering my mind
Cause I know you can't be far

Just the thought that you are mine
Makes cold wind shiver down my spine
You put a spell on my heart
But I am not calling for any redemption

And the secret still remains
And I want you not to reveal
How you make me feel
How I have been touched by your love

So you keep the key
And I keep on playing my part
Not knowing the game
And the secret will remain

And the secret will remain
And the secret will remain

And the secret will remain
