

Sarah Mclachlan

"Rivers Of Love"

Visit "Rivers Of Love" on MotoLyrics.com

There's tunnel that leads to the river of love
The sides make you bleed 'til you're white as a dove
Don't bother to bring all the baggage you cling to
The porter will free you before you come through

The doorway that cleanses
The darkness that mends
It's easy to smile in the end

And it's all come down to leaving it all behind
And moving onto the rivers of love
And never be lonely again
How long have you waited
How long 'til you drown

The rules and directions
The twists and corrections
Takes hold on the highs
We still strive 'til we die
To seek out the one love
The one that we dreamed of
The one maybe with you everyday

Alone and untethered and free of all ties
Free since the day you first cried

And it's all come down to leaving it all behind
And moving onto the rivers of love
And never be lonely again
How long have you waited
How long 'til you drown

And it's all come down to leaving it all behind
And moving onto the rivers of love
And never be lonely again
How long have you waited
How long 'til you drown
How long have you waited
How long 'til you drown

