"Little Game"

Let's play pretend.
Think of all your memories,
The people who lived them,
And you can relive them again.
Then take back all those words you said
That you never truly meant,
And we'll see what could have happened.
This little game,
With characters ever changing,
And scenery that slowly changes shape.
As you walk your path into the sunset,
Remember one thing...
And we'll see what could have happened.
