I've journeyed over the mountains just like that famous bear

I didn't realize it wouldn't get me anywhere

And now I'm tired of roaming this life is not much fun

I'd like to go home, if I had one

I've known all kinds of women, the rowdy and the nice

I've even thought of marriage, but I've never thought of that twice

And now, I feel the loneliness with every setting sun

I'd love to see my baby, if I had one

I've made a lot of money, I've also spent a lot

I've thought a man was judged by the money that he got

But money will not take me back to days when I was young

I guess my heart would break, if I had one

I guess my heart would break, if I had one
